Synopsis

Malaysians are already feeling the effects of climate change, with extreme weather increasingly disrupting our lives and livelihoods. According to climate scientists, without urgent action to reduce emissions and adapt to a rapidly changing environment, the world could become unlivable within our lifetime. Are you ready to support your clients in protecting their people, brand, and bottom line from the devastating impacts of climate change? Then join our interactive 90-minute workshop to;

- Understand why companies should build climate resilience
- Explore their journey in building a climate resilient business
- Discuss a brokers' role in protecting businesses from climate change
